

Bramwell & Sons Tool Supply

Monthly Sales Snapshot — August 2026

Hey team — here's the roundup for August. Overall a solid month: total revenue landed at $391,240, up 6.3% from July. Utility knives and work gloves had a great run, and the cordless drill continues to be a steady earner despite its higher price point. Details below.

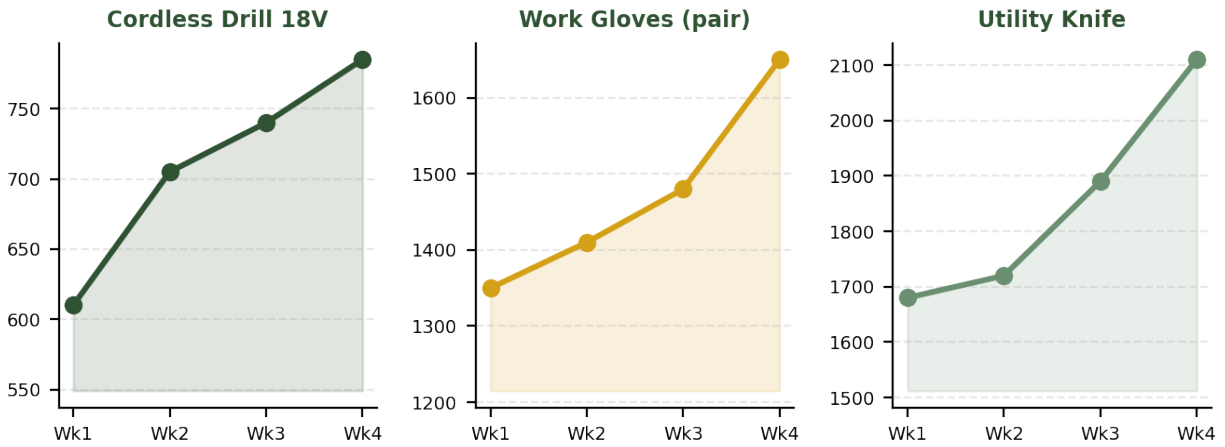

Price vs. Sales Volume

As usual, lower-priced everyday items move the most volume — utility knives and tape measures sit at the top left of the chart. The cordless drill and circular saw sell fewer units but carry much higher margins per sale.

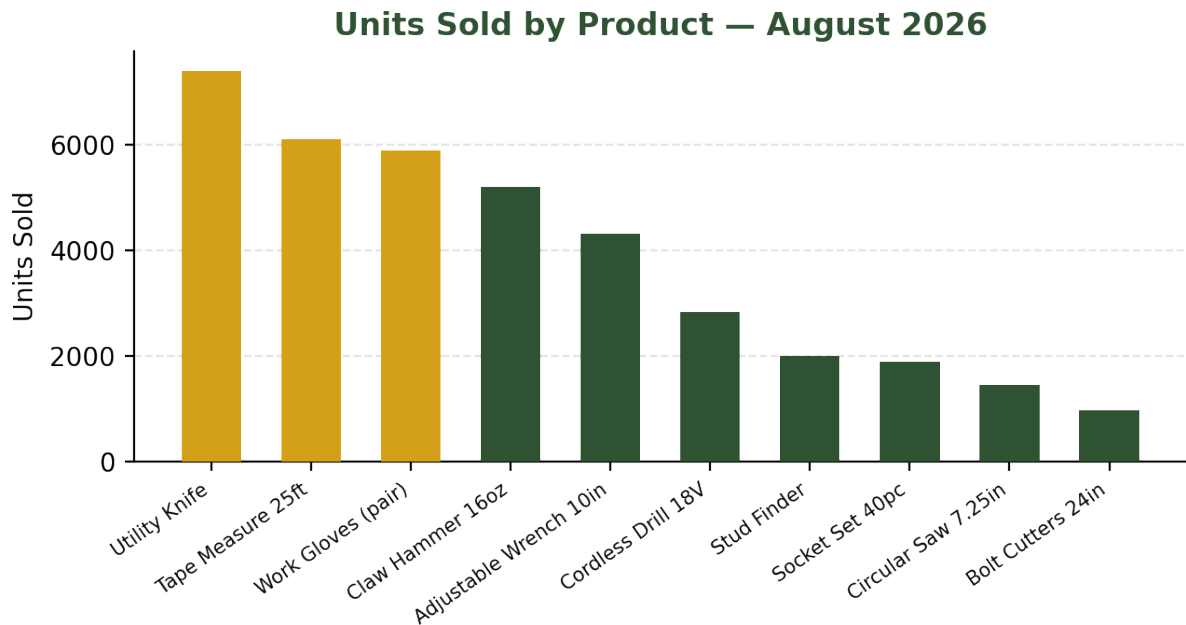

Weekly Trend — Top 3 Movers

All three of our fastest-moving items trended upward through the month, with utility knives picking up noticeably in week 4 ahead of the Labor Day promotional push.

Units Sold — Full Product Ranking

This Month's Top 5 Earners

- Utility Knife — $48,100 revenue (+9.2% vs. July)
- Tape Measure 25ft — $68,625 revenue (+4.1% vs. July)
- Claw Hammer 16oz — $75,545 revenue (+2.8% vs. July)
- Work Gloves (pair) — $76,570 revenue (+11.4% vs. July)
- Adjustable Wrench 10in — $42,120 revenue (-1.5% vs. July)

This report contains illustrative sample data generated for demonstration purposes and does not represent the results of an actual company. Bramwell & Sons Sales Team — internal newsletter.